Creating the Susquehanna Greenway - a 500 mile corridor of parks, trails, and protected lands - will make it possible to walk, bike, or paddle from river town to river town. The Greenway improves the quality of life for people who live near it, enhances the economic vitality of the communities that foster it, and preserves the natural resources of the Susquehanna River itself.

To learn about the projects happening along the Susquehanna Greenway, tune to WVIA on October 9, 2014 at 8:00 pm to catch the latest Greenlife Pennsylvania segment that features the Susquehanna Greenway and different ways that everyone can get involved.

The Greenlife Pennsylvania series takes viewers to the conservation front; places where the problems and the science can be seen and heard with thought-provoking reality, and where individuals and organizations are fighting back with cutting-edge tactics and a can-do spirit.

The Susquehanna Greenway Partnership is a nonprofit organization working with local leaders and volunteers to create vibrant communities; encourage active, healthy lifestyles and protect clean water. Learn more, become a member, or sign up to volunteer at www.SusquehannaGreenway.org
