A team of 11 young men and women are assisting communities along the North Branch of the Susquehanna River in recovering flood damage.

The Susquehanna Greenway Partnership, partnered with Appalachian Coal Country Team will host a series of recovery events with the chosen members of the National Civilian Conservation Corps.

Now through April 4, the NCCC, a group of young volunteers from age 18 to 24, will help restore areas of Shickshinny, Berwick, Bloomsburg and Falls.

The NCCC will aid in the beautification of river banks, public parks and trails along the Susquehanna river.

In Shickshinny, the volunteer team will work on picking up litter and cleaning the streets with help from the Susquehanna Warrior Trail Council. At the Test Track park in Berwick, the group will conduct riverbank, litter and brush cleanup. Bloomsburg's Town park will receive assistance in recovery of flood damage and the local playgrounds in Falls will also receive attention from the NCCC.

Those interested in assisting the NCCC volunteers are invited to attend any of the following events: From 1 to 3 p.m. Friday in Berwick's Test Track Park; from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday along the Warrior trail; from 9 to 11 a.m. March 24 in Bloomsburg Town Park; and from 9 to 11 a.m. March 31 in Falls.
