

Volunteers clean Bloom riverbanks

Cassandra Lewis of Niagara Falls, N.Y., left, clears debris from the bank of the Susquehanna River in Bloomsburg on Saturday. Lewis is a member of a National Civilian Conservation Corps team that has been helping with flood relief in the area for several weeks.

Ally Ramirez of Portland, Ore., right, pulls a plastic bag from a tree on the riverbank near the Town Park. Ramirez is also a member of the National Civilian Conservation Corps. The Susquehanna Greenway Partnership is hosting the team.
