TRAILS

LOW WATER: KNOW BEFORE YOU GO!

The Susquehanna River is currently experiencing low water levels. Before paddling, always check river gages and consult with local outfitters for the latest conditions. Paddlers are encouraged to target trips upriver from dammed areas where water levels may be more reliable.

Not sure how to read a river gage? Explore our River Gage FAQ.

SOJOURN RECAP

SGP did manage to squeeze one more sojourn out of the season with a scenic float from Lock Haven to Jersey Shore. We already have some exciting ideas for next year and hope you see more of you on the river! See our Facebook post or Recap Reel to get a flavor for what our events are like.

SHARE THE WATER

With low water levels, a higher concentration of both motorized and non-motorized boats will be navigating the same deeper channels. Stay safe and courteous with these tips for sharing the river!

WATERWAY WISDOM

ON THE  SUSQUEHANNA GREENWAY

KNOW THE RULES

Check state and waterway regulations for your boat type—powered or unpowered. Being prepared prevents accidents.

KNOW THE WATERWAY

Study maps and water levels before you go. Each river, stream, or lake has its own personality!

YIELD WHEN NEEDED

Powered boats give way to paddlers. Boats moving upstream must yield to boats traveling downstream.

WILDLIFE IS WATCHING

Keep noise down, maintain distance from animals, and rinse your boat to prevent spreading invasive species.

LEAVE ONLY RIPPLES

Pack out all trash, food, and gear. Keep our waterways clean for everyone.

COMMUNICATE CLEARLY

Make your movements visible and audible. Bright colors, whistles, lights, and signals help avoid confusion.

RESPECT NO-WAKE ZONES

Wakes can tip small boats. Stay back, slow down, and give paddlers plenty of space.

PLAN AHEAD

Use maps, safety resources, and trail guides to enjoy the Susquehanna safely and politely.
